Mobile vaccination clinics serve 90

About 40% in Jefferson have received shot

BY BOB DEMAREE

Seeking to vaccinate as many local residents against COVID-19 as possible, the Jefferson County Health Department hosted mobile clinics throughout the county last week and provided the vaccine to 90 people at six mobile sites.

"It went really well. Overall, I was pleased," said Tammy Monroe, Jefferson County Health Administrator. "That's 90 more that received the vaccine that would not have received one if it had not been more convenient."

One week ago on Wednesday, the mobile vaccine site was in Dupont where Dr. Paul Rosenberg and Dr. Pat Stack were glad to volunteer giving shots at the local feed mill.

"It's an outreach to get people to be vaccinated," said Rosenberg, noting that by bringing the vaccinations to where the people are eliminates a big barrier for some residents. In fact, most of the mobile sites were arranged to be at the same location and time as garbage dropoff day in those communities.

Rosenberg said the goal is to reach herd immunity to help

Back in Blue

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County continued to show improvement by moving into a "Blue" advisory when the Indiana Department of Health updated its COVID-19 metric dashboard at noon on Wednesday.

"Blue" advisory means the county is seeing minimal community spread of the coronavirus.

In Jefferson County, there have been just two new positive cases of COVID-19 since Monday. Overall, there have been a total 3,328 confirmed

The ghost of Bob Wills lives on in Corrina Wills

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

This column is a kind of instant flashback, reverse chronology story. If you went to the House Band show at Mad Paddle Brewery last Saturday you saw the amazing musicianship and energy of fiddle player Corrina Wills. Now, after the fact, you can learn her story.

First of all, she is not related to the late-great Texas swing legend Bob Wills. Her real name is Rozlyn Turner.

"Bob Wills is just my all-time idol and he played my absolute favorite style of music. One of his most iconic songs was a tune called 'Corrine Corrina' and I just took my stage name, Corrina Wills, from that," she said.

"I'm a Hoosier girl, born in Bedford and then spent some time around Bloomington. For the last eight years or so I've been living up the road in Greensburg. But I mostly play with bands up in Indianapolis. I play with the Wyatt Massingille Band, Christine Kindred, and Payton Collier a lot.

Haggerty, a veteran himself, served in the US Army during Vietnam.

Williams plots career in music

BY BOB DEMAREE

Matthew Williams is already pretty well known around southern Indiana for his athletic skills, but the Southwestern High School senior is hopeful that someday he'll be even better known for his music.

Matthew Williams

Williams ranks sixth in Southwestern boys basketball career scoring and was part of a Rebels team that advanced to the regional final this year.

But in spite of that athletic success, he is committed to music after graduation.

"I have loved music longer than sports. Sports is something I do," said Williams, who has also competed in cross country and track at Southwestern.

Athletics will continue to be a part of his life, but Williams said his goal is a career in music. A day after graduating from Southwestern High School, Williams will be performing with others at a concert in Hanover Community Park. The concert, gates open at 5 p.m. with music starting at 6 p.m., will

"My career as a fiddler started somewhat by accident. I started playing classical violin in the sixth grade in school orchestras, but when I was 16 I won a contest and I was interviewed in the local newspaper. I said something about how I loved the country fiddle sound, and that I'd like to play in a band someday.

"Some Bluegrass players saw the article and took it to mean that I was looking to join a band right then. Well, I'd never played a lick of Bluegrass, but next thing I know I was pulled into all these Bluegrass jam sessions and learning from these great players. By the time I was 18 I was playing fiddle in country bands. Like they say, be careful what you wish for!

"Anyway, more recently I've gotten several gigs down here in Madison, and I really love it here. I played with Hank Haggard at Mad Paddle back before COVID, then I did a St. Patty's show with Rusty Bladen, and then I got the chance to do a guest appearance with the Mad Paddle House Band.

"It was Jerry Wade's idea (owner of Mad Paddle) to bring me in for a guest appearance. He's always adding new songs to their playlist, and he had a few songs that really need a fiddle, like Paper and Fire by John Mellancamp. And then they told me to learn Kashmir by Led Zeppelin, which I have to admit, as a country girl, I'd never even heard before.

"The whole experience has been incredible. When you team up with a new group of musicians, you honestly never know what to expect. But that group of guys is incredible. It's been a real treat for me working with them.

"The House Band experience is exactly the kind of thing I'm looking for right now. I just quit my day job and I'm making a go as a full-time musician. I've been spending a lot of hours each day practicing and improving, because if this is going to be my life, I want to be the best that I can be.

"The challenge of working with a bunch of top level musicians like Joe and Tom and Danny and Kerry and Deano the rest, that's the kind of experience that can really elevate your playing and make you better.

"I'm super happy Jerry reached out to me and gave me this opportunity, and I hope to play in Madison many more times in the future."

Kentucky-Indiana region.

"Paxton has been interested in acquiring newspapers as part of our strategy given the conditions and the nature of the newspaper industry," Weafer said. "Acquisitions strengthen us and help us to persevere, so it is part of an overall strategy to continue to acquire newspapers.

"Landmark has a clustering of newspapers that are very geographically connected to Paxton papers," he said. "So there is a lot of synergy that can be had with that."

Landmark newspapers that were acquired in northern Kentucky include the Trimble Banner Democrat in Bedford, the News Democrat in Carrollton, the Henry County Local in New Castle, The Oldham Era in La Grange, the Grant County News in Dry Ridge and the News-Herald in Owenton. The deal also includes The Cats Pause covering University of Kentucky sports.

Landmark Community Newspapers traces its roots to 1966 when a group of eight local newspaper publishers decided to pool their resources and purchase a printing plant.

The company was incorporated as Newspapers Inc. two years later. Newspapers Inc. was then purchased by Landmark Communications Inc. in 1973.

In addition to its Kentucky newspapers, the purchase includes Landmark's publications in Florida, Indiana, Iowa, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

PMG will officially take over operations in early June, but there will be a transition period to PMG regarding systems and procedures, Paxton said.

Leo Virgil Cunningham

December 6th, 1974 - May 17th, 2021

Leo, was a very eclectic person who found his greatest happiness while composing music, and writing lyrics. He was an impressive pianist who could hear music then play. We never had the opportunity to listen to him enough. He always left us wanting more. He loved people and never seemed to get bogged down with "the little things" in life.

Leo was an excellent teacher. Because of his eclecticism he taught his family and friends the meanings of unconditional love, non judgement, patience, acceptance, perseverance, and stamina, to name a few. We will carry these lessons and experiences with us.

Leo loved nature, traveling, animals and children. They gravitated to him like a magnet.

Leo is survived by his mother and father Joseph and Lorna Cunningham, his brother Roehbe Cunningham, and two sisters Grace Silverthorn, Adina Cunningham.and his dog Steel.

Leo left Vashon and moved to Madison Indiana with a dear friend and became a member of the Leroy Garvey family. He loved them and was grateful for their kindness, acceptance and love.

Leo loved his Bestie Melissa Perry who was always there with him doing what good Besties do. Giving a shoulder, a ride, an ear, or dinner and a movie. Leo was welcomed into the Perry family with open arms and his family grew from 1 to 3.

What a Blessing. So far from his home,knowing he was being welcomed into so many hearts. We will forever be grateful for your kindness, and open arms.

Prosecutor calls on community to boost teen self-esteem

May is National Teen Self-Esteem Month, which was created to raise public awareness about how low self-esteem can affect teens.

DAVID SUTTER

The teenage years are a notoriously difficult time for many young people. On top of physical and emotional changes, teens also must contend with the added pressures of social changes, new relationships, increased educational expectations, and peer pressure.

We should take particular note of this issue as Hoosiers. Indiana's teen suicide rate has been higher than the national average since 1999.

According to the "Indiana Youth Risk Behavior Survey," 22% of girls and 12% of boys surveyed in grades 9-12 seriously considered attempting suicide last year. Suicide is the second leading cause of death for Hoosier teens, with over 50 Indiana young people committing suicide each year.

Jefferson County is no exception. In fact, according to a 2018 New York Times article, in 2016, the suicide rate in Jefferson County was the highest suicide rate for any Indiana county, and more than twice the state average. Compared with the national rate, a startling 3.2 times higher.

It is not just suicide that is a concern. The National Survey of Children's Health reports that depression is the most prevalent mental disorder experienced among adolescents, with 30.8% of Indiana high school students reporting feeling sad or hopeless to the point that they stopped doing some usual activities almost every day for two or more weeks in a row. Life events can trigger depression, but it can also develop for no apparent reason. Some signs of depression in teens include difficulty falling asleep, or oversleeping; less socializing with friends or parents; loss of interest in activities they used to enjoy; frequent bouts of crying; or alcohol or drug use.

Teens most at risk for depression and/or suicide include victims of crime or bullying, those experiencing problems with friends, or teens suffering a traumatic event or loss.

Some studies also suggest that the more time teenagers spend on social media, the more likely they are to be depressed.

Setting aside a national awareness month provides a good reminder for us to help young people feel more confident about themselves.

Parents and guardians of teens are asked to make a particular effort during the month of May to be a positive role model for the young people in their lives. There are many ways to do this, such as leading by example; avoiding negativity; ensuring open lines of communication; building trust; guiding and encouraging your teen to make healthy decisions; listening and taking an interest in their lives.

Parents and guardians are in the best position to notice changes in your teen. If he or she shows signs of depression, we encourage you to seek professional help.

Visit your child's pediatrician or make an appointment to talk with a behavioral health specialist.

As your Prosecutor, this and every month my office will be working to lift up young people in our community.

Our victim's assistance program is here to ensure the safety and well-being of young victims, and to make sure their voice is heard in our court system.

We, along with our law enforcement partners, will always set a good example for the teens around us, and will work to encourage them to be all they can be. My office will continue to actively engage with our community school systems by participating in and monitoring safety protocols, encouraging anti-bullying efforts, helping with career days, serving as guest speakers, and working to cut back on truancy to help more teens graduate.

As a community, we owe it to our teens to help them succeed in life.

As we take this opportunity to reflect on how we can best do that, rest assured that as your Prosecutor, I will continue to keep our young people at the forefront of my work every day, and I will always look out for their best interest in the work that we do.

David Sutter is the Jefferson County Prosecutor include two other more seasoned artists — Frank Pearson & Friends and Short & Company.

Williams' commitment to music was strengthened during his junior year after he tore his anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) after just five games. He played two more games after that, continuing to feel unstable, and got it further checked. That's when the ACL injury was confirmed.

"I was out for eight months and couldn't walk for two," Williams noted.

It was a difficult period for Williams, frustrated that he was physically unable to help his teammates and participate in sports, he turned to his singing and guitar, and music "really helped me through. It was something to do that I looked forward to."

When the COVID-19 pandemic limited his interactions even more, that just provided "more time with the guitar ... I learned a lot more on music and I took it more serious."

Before the ACL, Williams said he had plans to play college basketball, but now that's changed.

"I am trying to get to where I can hopefully do music the rest of my life," Williams said.

"I have got to have a job and need to provide for myself," Williams added, noting he will work at Dow Corning Corporation in Carrollton, Kentucky, during the week with plans to perform music on weekends with hopes that his music will someday pay all the bills.

Williams said he was inspired when his family went to a performance in Nashville, Tennessee, of singer Mathew Barringer, a 2008 Southwestern High School graduate. Barringer invited Williams on stage to perform.

"I got to play before 1,000 people in Nashville. It was pretty crazy," said Williams, who said it was totally unexpected. But the experience confirmed to him what he wants to do with his life. "I like the good feeling that people get from the music."

Williams, a self-proclaimed country singer, said he sometimes performs rap and has also done rock.

"I have tried to expand to some variety, but country is what I feel most comfortable doing," he said. "I grew up with country and that's how I was raised. It's how I have lived. I like it simple, and country tells a story more than other music."

Saturday's concert will be staged at the Hanover Community Park amphitheater as part of Hanover Town Council's efforts to revitalize its parks. Tickets are $15 and can be purchased from a link on the Town of Hanover Facebook page or Saturday at the park.

and protect everyone but to do that requires a high percentage of the population be vaccinated. He noted it's important that people think beyond themselves and get vaccinated.

"You may think you can survive but what about someone else?," he said, noting that others — 82 Jefferson County residents have died so far and more than 13,000 Hoosiers — may be more vulnerable.

It was light day for vaccinations Wednesday at Dupont where after two hours only three people had been vaccinated, and just eight for the day. But turnout was good Monday at Chelsea where 27 received shots. Twenty were vaccinated Tuesday at Deputy and another 15 Thursday at Rykers Ridge. On Friday, mobile vaccine clinics were held at three sites — House of Hope in downtown Madison with seven vaccinated, Canaan with eight and Brooksburg with five vaccinated.

All three vaccines were available at the mobile clinics — the Moderna and the Pfizer, which require two doses, and the Johnson & Johnson, which requires one dose — so JCHD will be back at the same mobile sites in three weeks for those who need their second dose of Moderna or Pfizer. Monroe said many opted for the one-shot Johnson & Johnson vaccine to be done with vaccinations more quickly.

JCHD will hold a vaccination clinic at Hanover Park on Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. during a senior citizen activity at the Community Building, but Monroe said the clinic "is open to anyone who wants to come" and JCHD welcomes participation from anyone still needing vaccination.

Monroe said JCHD's building at 715 Green Road has been open for vaccinations occasionally during evening hours, but she said to call ahead at 812-273-1942 to check because evening hours have fluctuated.

Appointments can be scheduled by visiting www.ourshot.in.gov or by calling 211 and walk-ins are welcome Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Everyone age 12 and older is eligible. An adult must accompany children ages 12 to 15 to the appointment and parental consent is required for all minors. In particular, she encourages young persons ages 12-17 to be vaccinated before school begins again in the fall.

In Jefferson County, 12,534 had been fully vaccinated as of Tuesday and 12,765 had received the first vaccine of a two-vaccine series. For those who have been vaccinated that's 39.5% of the county's population of 32,308 from 2019 Census data.

"We are pleased," said Monroe, noting Jefferson County has done comparatively well. "We always want to do better and we encourage everyone to get vaccinated ... When you look around at surrounding counties, we're ahead of them" in the percentage that have been vaccinated.

Switzerland County has 2,239 fully vaccinated and 2,248 who have received the first vaccine of a two-vaccine series for 21% of the county population. Vaccination percentages in other neighboring counties are Ripley, 33.6%; Jennings, 27.8%; and Scott, 29.7%.

Monroe said JCHD will continue working to make sure vaccine is available to as many people as possible even if that means some vaccine will be wasted when the vaccine is thawed out and then not utilized in the required time limit. She said some loss is to be expected now that more people have been vaccinated, and fewer people are scheduling their shots by appointment.

"We do have some waste every day ... but we are to have vaccine readily available," Monroe said, noting the state wants to ensure there is ample supply daily available so that no one still needing vaccination is turned away. Waste "is inevitable. I hate it" but it's a matter of making sure the vaccine is on hand. "We don't want to turn anyone away."

With the Centers of Disease Control and Normalcy (CDC) loosening mask requirements on people who have been fully vaccinated, Monroe said that being vaccinated is the best route toward a return to normalcy in the lives of each individual. For instance, she noted that prior to the vaccine that persons in close contact with those infected with the coronavirus would have to quarantine to two weeks. "Now, if you're vaccinated and come into close quarters with someone who has the virus, there is no need to quarantine," Monroe said.

TENNIS REGIONAL ROUNDUP

Southwestern's season ends against Seymour

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Southwestern's excellent 2021 girls tennis season came to an end with a 5-0 loss to 28th-ranked Seymour in the regional semifinals at Bloomington South on Tuesday.

The Rebels put up a fight in all five matches but couldn't get the crucial win against the highly-touted Owls.

"It was a great learning experience for our players," Southwestern coach Kenny Garrett said. "Seymour is ranked second in our district and showed why as they are a very solid team at every spot."

The best match of the day was also the longest and came at No. 1 singles where Elle Ford battled Seymour's Brooke Shaftstall before falling 7-6 (7-4), 6-4.

"Falling in a first set tie breaker after playing so well kind of took some air out of her on the extremely hot day but she continued to battle in the second before falling in two sets," Garrett said. "I am really proud of Elle for her hard work and the time she puts in to just be a better tennis player. She started the season at 1-5 and finished at 13-8 so 12-3 in her last 15 matches just shows her improvement and adding her net play to her resume has made her a much better player."

Julia Worcester suffered just her third loss of the season, 6-3, 6-1 to Sandy Cerino at No. 2 singles to finish at 18-3 on the season while Audrey Bare fell 6-0, 6-1 to Kirby Hill at No. 3 singles and finishes her season at 13-7.

In doubles play, Autumn Harmon and Chloe Adcock lost 6-3, 6-3 to Avery Ragon and Mallory Moore at No. 1 while Ally Voorhies and Syrenia Hardy lost 6-0, 6-1 to Elise Hartung and Madalyn Baurle at No. 2.

Harmon ends her senior season at 17-4, Adcock at 10-2, Voorhies at 16-5 and Hardy at 15-6.

"No tears for today as we have had arguably the best tennis season in the history of our school with the Covington Invitational win with five all-tourney team players, the conference championship with five all-conference players and our second sectional in school history and only the fifth in Jefferson County ever," Garrett said. "It is pretty amazing and we are only going to build on this as we have five of our top seven back and some solid reserves in Peyton Howell, who went 11-1 on the season playing a lot of varsity matches for us and Autumn Gross who went 4-4 on the season. With around four or five freshmen coming in and a solid middle school team the future looks bright."

Southwestern finishes the season with a 17-4 record.

Carroll rolls to 11-8 baseball victory against Williamstown

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Carrol County baseball built an early 9-0 lead then held on for an 11-8 win over Williamstown at home on Monday.

Carroll, winners of seven-straight, collected 14 hits in the game with Luke Staley going 3-for-3 with three RBIs, Kayne Scruggs going 2-for-3 with a double and an RBI, Landon Isaacs going 2-for-4 with a double and an RBI, and David Smith getting two hits and driving in a run. Andrew Shaw had a hit and three RBIs and Dhane Montgomery had a hit.

Montgomery (1-0) picked up the win after allowing three earned runs on seven hits in four innings and five strikeouts. Landon Isaacs got the final two outs for his second save of the season.

Carroll, now 15-8 overall and 9-4 in the North Central Kentucky Conference, closed out the regular season on Wednesday when it traveled to Scott. The 31st District Tournament begins on Monday. Pairings have yet to be released.

Pacers overcome early woes to roll past North Decatur, 6-1

BY JORDAN BEAR

In what was a rough start for Switzerland County's ace pitcher, Lily Sparks was called for four illegal pitches against the first two batters of the game and leading directly to a run.

But the junior hurler settled down after that and was spectacular the rest of the way, leading Switzerland County to a 6-1 win over North Decatur in the Class 2A Softball Sectional semifinals Tuesday at home.

The illegal pitches came as a surprise to both Sparks and her father and coach, Bryan Sparks, but they quickly adjusted to the calls.

"I really don't know exactly what was happening. They said she was landing outside of the lane before the ball left her hand," Bryan Sparks said. "She's been pitching since she's 10 years old and was never called for that but they're the umpires and those are the rules and you have to adjust in those situations and she did really well in doing that."

The Chargers were able to score that run in the first inning but that was all they would get off Sparks. Although North Decatur held the Pacers in check in the first two innings, the Swiss finally broke through in the third when Madesyn Byrd's infield single scored Maddie Duvall on a close play at the plate to tie the contest 1-1.

Switzerland took control of the game in the fourth inning when, after getting two runners on, Duvall and her sister Jessie, struck on offense. After Jessie Duvall singled to load the bases, Maddie laced a base hit into the outfield to plate two runs to take the lead. The Pacers added three more runs to push ahead 6-1.

Sparks said he was proud of his team for making the basic plays and everyone chipping in on the effort.

"They were patient, and waited for their pitch. I've told them just because you can put the bat on the ball, doesn't mean you always should," Sparks said. "They were patient, they didn't just try to hit home runs, they played small ball. I asked after the game, who had the home run? It was no one, it was just single, sacrifice, and taking the basic steps to control the game."

Maddie Duvall finished the game 3-for-4 with two doubles, two RBIs and two runs scored while Jessie Duvall had two hits and scored a run. Kierstan Oeffinger had a hit and Lily Sparks and Nora Hankins each drove in runs.

Above left: Switzerland County's Maddie Duvall (clapping) celebrates after sliding in under the tag of North Decatur catcher Kacie Ogden for one of her two runs in a 6-1 sectional semifinal win over the Chargers. Above right: Switzerland County's Lilly Sparks delivers a pitch in Tuesday's sectional semifinal win over North Decatur in Vevay. Sparks, now 17-3, went the distance, allowing one earned run on four hits with seven strikeouts and two walks. The Pacers play South Ripley for the championship Thursday night in Vevay.

Sparks struck out seven and walked two while scattering four hits over six innings to get the win.

Switzerland County, now 16-3 on the season, will face an old foe when it takes on South Ripley in the sectional championship today at 6 p.m. The Raiders defeated Austin 7-1 in the Tuesday's first semifinal.

Switzerland and South Ripley split their two regular season games with a total of just three runs scored over the two contests.

The rubber match should be no different and Bryan Sparks knows his team is in for a fight but he's excited.

Switzerland County's Maddie Duvall looks to coach Bryan Sparks during Tuesday's game. Duvall was 3-for-4 with a double, two RBIs and two runs scored in the win.

"This is what I wanted. We got them at home 2-0 but then they beat us 1-0 at their place so it's going to be an absolute dog fight," Sparks said. "Their pitcher is great, and I think it's going to be a great game. My girls will be ready for it."

Big 4th inning propels North Harrison over Madison

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

SCOTTSBURG — Things seem to be going Madison's way through the first three innings of the Cubs' softball sectional opener on Tuesday. Madison had survived some early errors and had used small ball to kick-start a rally to hold a 3-1 lead.

But everything crashed down quickly for Madison, which allowed North Harrison to score five runs in the fourth inning and never recovered, falling 7-3 in the Class 3A Sectional at Scottsburg.

Madison coach Tim Torrance was happy with the way his team played overall, but the few mistakes they did make proved to be fatal.

"It wasn't our best defensive effort. But when we got up 3-1 with the bottom of our lineup leading the charge, I was feeling pretty good," Torrance said. "But it wasn't our best pitched night, it wasn't our best defensive night and it wasn't our best night at the plate by any stretch. If we don't have pitching and defense, we're going to be in trouble."

Madison collected eight hits in the game but also struck out 16 times against North Harrison's Ashton Blackburn, and it was those punchouts that killed every Cub rally.

The LadyCats (10-10) used two Madison errors to score a run in the first inning and threatened over the next two before Cub ace Immi Mann got out of danger.

That pitching paid off when Madison strung together three hits and got an error to score three runs in the third to jump ahead 3-1. It was small ball that started the rally, with Casey Dyer and Keara Eder each reaching on bunts, followed by an RBI single by Molly Armbrecht and a booming two-run double from Cam Mann as the Cubs blazed into the lead.

David Campbell

Madison's Keara Eder lays down a drag bunt for a base hit during the Cubs' sectional loss to North Harrison on Tuesday in Scottsburg.

But Chloee Shewmaker opened the North Harrison fourth with a home run to center that changed the complexion of the game. Immi Mann then walked the next two batters and the LadyCats were off to the races. Erin Spurgeon and Jenna Armstrong each had RBI singles, Spurgeon scored on the back end of a double steal, and Blackburn brought in a run with a sacrifice fly for a 6-3 lead.

Madison went down in order on strikes in the fourth and briefly threatened in the fifth but couldn't get any closer. North Harrison then added a run in the sixth for the final margin.

Cam Mann went 3-for-4 and was robbed of a fourth hit on a spectacular catch by centerfielder Shelby Smith to end the game. Keara Eder had two hits while Patty Johnson and Ally Zuckschwerdt each added hits.

Immi Mann (10-12) took the loss in her final high school game after allowing six unearned runs on 10 hits in seven innings with five strikeouts and three walks.

Madison ends the season with a 13-16 record and overall, Torrance was pleased. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the fact that he himself wasn't hired until late January, the young Cubs had little time to work and used the season as a learning tool.

With only Immi Mann and reserve Brandie Garcia graduating, Madison should have a veteran team on the field next year.

"We now know what we need to work on going into the offseason. I just challenged them in the huddle that from now until the beginning of March, we need all hands on deck as much as we can," Torrance said. "Especially in the summertime, we have a lot that we need to work on and a lot of the focus will be on hitting. But they've learned a lot of fundamentals and they've learned a lot of new things, but now we need to take a step forward."

Austin blitzes Southwestern early

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

The postseason soured quickly for Southwestern softball, which allowed four runs in the first inning and seven more in both the second and third innings en route to a 19-4 loss to Austin in the opening round of the Class 2A Sectional at Switzerland County on Monday.

The four runs in the first inning were all unearned as two errors opened the door for Austin to take the early lead. Two more errors in the second and another pair in the third led to five earned runs to all but end the game.

The early outburst by the Eagles was all they needed as pitcher Summer Eskridge cruised through the Southwestern lineup with few worries. She escaped a minor jam in the third but overall limited Southwestern to just three hits in four innings with three strikeouts and no walks.

The Rebels broke up the shutout in the fifth against reliever Nataley Spradlin. Aleana Meador opened the inning by drawing a walk and an error kept the inning going.

Abby Fulton and Trinity McLain each singled in a run, and Riley Scroggins brought in two with a double for the final 19-4 margin.

Fulton was 3-for-3 with an RBI in her final high school game while Ashton Goode had a hit and scored a run and Zoie Watson had a double.

Breona Brewer (0-3) took the loss after allowing 10 runs — just five earned — on six hits in one and a third innings spread over two different stints. Jenny Tankersley allowed nine runs — five earned — on 10 hits in two and a third nnings.

Spradlin was 3-for-4 with a triple, a double and two RBIs to lead Austin while Kaitlyn Madden was 3-for-3 with a double, two RBIs and three runs scored.

The loss ends a frustrating season for Southwestern which was beset with injuries and finished just 6-21. Freshman Ashley Fulton missed the last 17 games after breaking her fingers while leading hitter Morgan Mahoney and Halee Smith also finished the season injured.

Austin advanced to the semifinals where it lost 7-1 to South Ripley on Tuesday.

Trimble's bats around Carroll, 10-0, in softball

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Trimble County hammered eight extra-base hits and McKenna Ritchie tossed a two-hit shutout to roll over Carroll County, 10-0, in softball Tuesday in Bedford.

The Raiders smacked four triples and had four doubles in an overall 12-hit attack that overwhelmed Carroll.

Emma Ginn led the offensive charge by going 3-for-4 with a triple, a double, four RBIs and a run scored. Rachael Liter had two triples and scored three runs, Kaylee Payton had two hits and scored twice, Emma Horn had a double and drove in three runs, Lauren Haney had a triple, an RBI and scored twice, Maddie Nixon had a double and an RBI and Addison Edmondson had a double.

Ritchie (17-7) struck out three and walked one to pick up the win.

Bailey Mefford and Bailey Stewart each had a hit for Carroll County. Mallory Noble (5-11) allowed eight earned runs in five innings and took the loss.

Trimble, now 22-10 overall, 10-2 in the North Central Kentucky Conference and 7-1 in district play, traveled to Gallatin County on Wednesday and wraps up the regular season at home against Henry County today.

Carroll County, now 6-11 overall, 5-5 in the NCKC and 3-4 in the district, closes the regular season today at North Oldham.

Please, no pictures

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have a problem I do not know what to do about. As I am getting old, I terribly dislike having my picture taken — especially when I am asked to pose. I get beet red from embarrassment and start feeling sick.

Last Sunday, my husband and I attended a religious ceremony for his granddaughter "Bridget" (my lovely step-granddaughter), and afterward my stepdaughter "Wendy" insisted we both pose with Bridget for a photo. I told Wendy, "Please, not me. I really hate having my picture taken." Wendy kept insisting it was "for family use only" but eventually let it be. Later, while we were all together at a restaurant, I saw her using the camera, and I am pretty sure she took photos of me, as well. Because we were a relatively large group, it would probably have been difficult to avoid me, so I did not say anything. Besides, I love my husband's children and grandchildren.

On the long drive home, I asked my husband what he thought, and he indicated he could see both sides. I think that as a good hostess, you should not insist on doing something that makes a guest uncomfortable. At the same time, I understand she tries to include me. Wendy takes selfies all the time, so I do not think she can relate to how I feel. What do you think? — Camera-Shy Grandma

Dear Camera-Shy Grandma: I agree that no one should insist on taking someone's photo against his or her will. The problem is that to some people these days, the phrase "I don't like having my picture taken" might as well be gibberish. They simply can't comprehend it. Your stepdaughter seems to be in this camp. Maybe she mistook your request for polite modesty. In any case, spell it out for her. Say, "I really, truly am uncomfortable with having my photo taken, and it causes me anxiety." Perhaps you could offer to take on the role of photographer so she's less concerned with needing to document memories.

For what it's worth, your attitude is refreshing in the age of the selfie stick. May we all live more for the present and less for the pictures.

Dear Annie: This is in response to the letter from "Help," the owner of the elderly dog with incontinence issues. I also have elderly dogs, a pair of sibling Westies, who have issues in this regard. One has had sleep incontinence off and on for half her life. She takes an effective medication for this issue and wears stylish "just in case" pants, which don't hinder her one bit. My male dog has been diabetic for three years, and this has made it harder for him to hold it at times.

"Help" needs to know about washable belly bands — which provide complete protection, as long as the proper area is covered. I add a couple of human-style incontinence panty liners to amp up capacity. I can now leave my dogs for six to eight hours if necessary, without worrying about what I'll find when I get home.

Please let "Help" know that this option might be better for her than expensive disposable diapers, confinement or putting up with messes. She is doing laundry anyway, so washing reusable doggy pants or belly bands (after spraying them with urine-eliminating products) would be no big deal, as long as she has an adequate supply on hand. Her elderly dog could have the run of the house again (or at least a bigger room than the bathroom) once she sees how well these products work.

Any problem regarding our companion animals can be overcome with love, advice, patience and adaptability on the part of their human parents. — Janey

Dear Janey: Hear! Hear! Thanks for the additional tips.

Unwanted invitations

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I read your column in my local paper, and you seem to respond in an unbiased manner, so I am turning to you for advice.

Over the past few months, I have received invitations to a 1-year-old's birthday party, a graduation and a wedding reception (not the wedding). In each case, the inviter was an acquaintance whom I know casually. I don't consider any of them to be a close friend, especially the graduate, whom I am "friends" with on social media but haven't seen or spoken to in over a year and a half.

All of the invitations were sent electronically. I am wondering whether the new world of technology has cheapened the tradition of celebrations. I can't help but feel that the invitations were not sincere and I was just included on mass lists of invitees gathered from social media. Receiving them has made me feel used, in a way.

I do not plan on attending any of the events. The dilemma I am facing is whether to send gifts. I was always taught that if I receive an invitation to an event, I should give a present even if I am unable to attend. However, I am confused about what is expected in situations such as these.

I want to do the right thing but not feel taken advantage of. — Unsure in Texas

Dear Unsure: An invitation is not an obligation. That goes for both gifts and attendance. You should worry about buying a gift only if you're going to attend, and you should attend only if you truly care to. If not, sending your regrets and best wishes is more than sufficient.

Dear Annie: How do I tell a guy I just started dating that I can't stand his mustache? First of all, it is not attractive at all. Then there is the matter of how, when he kisses me, it feels like sharp spikes going into my skin. I have dated and kissed other guys with mustaches and did not feel the same discomfort, so I'm not sure what the deal is.

I like him and enjoy his company. I don't want to hurt his feelings. What can I do? — 'Stache-Scratched

Dear 'Stache-Scratched: Speak up in behalf of your upper lip. After all, it would be hurtful to your new boyfriend if you wriggled away whenever he went in for a kiss and he didn't know why. There are plenty of remedies he could try — such as trimming less often and softening it with conditioner or coconut oil — short of shaving his mustache. Although you'd prefer he just shave it because you don't like the way it looks, that's not your call. To insist that a partner change his or her appearance is to be controlling. You can politely make your feelings known. (For example, you could say, "I would love to see you without a mustache. I bet you'd look even handsomer.") But ultimately, it's up to him. Who knows? With time, the mustache might actually grow on you.
